TO WHITE BY FORD WAREY NO. That the District Attorney Them Worried the Defence-Letters Mrs. Holman Has Dan's Bother Prose-cution - White Detectives Still at Work.

So far the District Attorney's office was been unable to get possession of any letters written by Everyn Nashin to Stamped White before she married Harry Thaw and following the correspondence between hermother, Mrs. Holman, and White.

There has been a general belief that a number of letters from Miss Neshit to White had been turned over to the District Attorney by either friends of White or the lawyers who represented a.m. For a long time there has been much uneasiness in the camp of the defence because of these It is known definitely, however, that the prosecution has not got the letters, much as it would like to see them if they are available.

In the early part of the case De Lancey Nicoll and Lawyer Evarts, representing the White interests, turned over to Dis-trict Attorney Jerome a batch of papers which belonged to White. It was surmised then that the papers contained much information about the relations between White, Mrs. Holman and her daughter and the correspondence that passed between them. As a matter of fact, it is understood that most of the documents were the reports of detectives hired by White to shadow Thaw when he learned that Thaw had sleuths watching his movements. There were also some papers bearing on White's private affairs, which might, it was thought, be of some assistance to the District Attorney in his investigation.

Realizing the importance of any letters from Miss Nesbit to White the District Attorney's office has made great efforts to get them if they existed. It was pointed out, however, that White, a man of the world and familiar with its ways, might have taken the precaution to destroy at once any letters from Miss Nesbit.

In replying to the letters from Mrs. Holman concerning the treatment of her daughter by Thaw, White sought legal advice, and then when he answered the letters they were typewritten, very formally and carefully worded. White, knowing of the suit contemplated by Miss Nesbit against Thaw, had in mind the possibilities of what might develop in the future when he wrote to Mrs. Holman. Consequently there is not much worriment on the part of the prosecution over the statement of Mrs. Holman that she has letters of White's locked up in a safe deposit vault.

De Lancey Nicoll said yesterday that there was nothing of great importance in the documents turned over by him and Mr. Evarts to the District Attorney. "Those papers," said Mr. Nicoll, rcon tained the reports of the detectives who were hired by White to watch Thaw. The reports came from the office of Howe & Hummel and were sent to me at my request. No letters from Miss Neshit to White were turned over by me to the District Attorney, and I do not into a fit there are any such letters in existence.

While the lawyers employed by Thaw and the Thaw family to look after his interests were mighty pleased when they learned that the District Attorney did not have the letters, it is known that the District Attorney has certain evidence which will be of the utmost importance at the trial: This' evidence is being carefully guarded and will not be disclosed until it is brought out

Mrs. William Thaw did not call on her son at the Tombs yesterday. Thaw's sister, Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, and her hus-band, called on him early in the day. They again urged him to come around to the that he should accept the advice of Black, Olcott, Gruber & Bonynge as to the insanity plea. Thew smiled, but remained steadfast to the counsel of

Thaw made her daily call. She was dressed in a white duck suit, a new gown for her, and a brown veil. She was accompanied by Roger O'Mara, the former Chief of Police of Pittsburg, who is working in Thaw's interests. They both had a talk with Thaw, and then fighting their way through the usual crowd that blocks the Tombs entrance and then_inghing their way through the usual crowd that blocks the Tombs entrance every day, drove of together in an electric hapsom.

Q'Mara is hustling all the time looking for soinething that will help. Thaw's case. So are detectives employed by Black, Olcott, Gruber & Bonyage. But the forces on the other side are also active. It is known that lawyers acting for the White interest have detectives looking for evidence against Thaw. In addition there are a number of the District Attorney's detectives looking after certain phases of the case.

Chaplain John Wade of the Tombs sailed for Europe yesterday. He carried a letter from Harry Thaw to his sister, the Countess of Yarmouth. Neither the Rev. Mr. Wade nor Thaw would say whether there was anything in the letter bearing on his case. It was surmised that the letter simply introduced Chaplain Wade to the Countess. Assistant District Attorney Garvan went to Hartford yesterday to see his family, who live there. It was said that while he was in Hartford Mr. Garvan might see William Sturgis, who was a close friend of Thaw and took Mrs. Thaw away after the murder.

of Thaw and took Mrs. Thaw away after the murder.

According to a story told to the District Attorney, Thaw while at a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Mayme Schwarz, at which Sturgis was present, flourished a revolver and made threats against White. This story was denied by Mr. Sturgis in a letter to Mr. Garvan. It is possible, however, that Mr. Garvan would like to talk to him about other phases of the case, as Sturgis was a good deal in the company of Thaw. Mr. Sturgis has aniounced, however, that he will not make any statement unless it is in the presence of his lawyers. When he wrote to Mr. Garvan he said he was too busy to come to Mr. Garvan he said he

This action of the Government is regatified as the first step toward a thorough purification of the Colonial Departplace in the Reichstag has long accused of wholesale corruption.

Erzeburger in the Reichstag and in articles in a newspaper published at Biberich has charged that a large pro-portion of the gifts and money collected for the soldiers at the front have never reached their destination, and that new uniforms, rifles and kits supposed to have been sent to Africa have been sold to farmers in the Argentine. He accused officers in Africa with having built bungalows for their mistreses with the public money and alleged general demoralization in the colonial service. The Catholic party in the Reichstag, to which Erzeburger belongs, declared that they would vote for no more colonial appropriations until re-forms had been made.

ORIGIN OF SPOTTED FEVER.

Marine Hospital Surgeons Say It Is Caused by the Infection of Ticks. WASHINGTON, July 28 .- Surgeons of the Marine Hospital Service assert that the deadly spotted fever of the Rocky Mountains is caused by the infection of ticks. This assertion is based upon recent experiments, and if further experiments confirm the discovery it is most important. Spotted fever is especially virulent in the Montana mountains, although it is well known in other parts of the West. The disease is generally fatal. There has been a widespread belief for some time that the fever was caused by ticks, as it always appears during the tick season. Physicians have disputed this view, however.

Zeller lives at 9 Eastern Parkway Extension, East New York. His daughter said last night that her father had been very despondent recently and considered himself a burden on his children.

MITCHELL LETS BEE BUZZ ON.

Mine Workers' President Looked Upon as Willing to Run With Bryan. INDIANAPOLIS, July 28.-Although John Mitchell, as president of the United Mine Workers, has usually been too busy to deny rumors that had to do with his possible part in politics, his friends are surprised that he has made no effort to kill off his boom for the Vice-Presidential nomination which was started in the anthracite coal district some time ago.

Some of his friends go so far as to say that he is listening to the buzzing of the bee and that he will sit still to see whether it will come near shough to sting him.

The cry of Bryan and Mitchell, heard in many sections, may be heard in others, and there are indications that while Mitchell has not made any effort to assist in the spreading of this cry he will not attempt to check it.

F YOU WERE SURE OF PURE MILK IT MIGHT BE DIFFERENT.

But Up at the Bables' Hospital They Say to Make Sure Better Pasteurize—And That Being So Why Not Have a Pas-teurized Supply for the City in General?

The physicians connected with the Babies' Tospital, at Lexington avenue and Fiftyfifth street, believe that the pasteurization of milk for the use of infants is an excellent idea. Many hundreds of youngsters are treated annually in the hospital and in the dispensary attached to it.

"In my opinion there is no better plan than to pasteurize the milk that is used by infants, especially in the summer time," said one of the medical staff of the hospital yesterday. "This applies, of course, to milk that is not known to be absolutely pure. We use pasteurized milk as well as the pure article in the hospital and we get good results from it.

In the dispensary practice the physicians recommend the mothers of ailing children to use pasteurized milk for the patients

Dr. William H. Park, the head of the bureau of research of the Health Department, is of the opinion that the good obtained from pasteurization greatly exceeds the disadvantages. He has made a study of infants' foods at the bedside as well as in the laboratory, and expressed the view that it would be a good thing for the general health of babies if pasteurization was generally adopted.

An advocate of that treatment of milk is Dr. Abraham Jacobi, who is connected with several hospitals as consulting physician and is considered an authority on diseases of children.

"The process of pasteurization kills most of the germs that may be present in certain kinds of milk," he said. "This process or something like it seems to be absolutely necessary to preserve the child's health When properly carried out the heating does not destroy the flavor and produces very slight chemical changes. There may be slight chemical changes. There may be in impure milk the germs of typhoid fever, cholera, tuberculosis or diphtheria. The heating will destroy these germs. Milk thus treated is nutritious and is of great value in summer.

"The trouble in this city is to get pure milk. The source of the milk supply is sometimes so far away that it is from twenty-four to forty-eight heurs from the time the cows yield it to the time the children use it as food. Then it sometimes happens time the cowsyleid it to the time the children use it as food. Then it sometimes happens that germs of tuberculosis are transmitted from the cow. There is also the danger of germs being conveyed in the milk rrom the hands or clothing of the persons in the dairy shculi there be a case of scarlet fever or dipatheria on the farm. The water used to wash the milk palls or pansmay contain typhoid fever germs which get into the milk. Then water may be added to the milk after it leaves the farm, and it is good to suspect all water that is not boiled of containing germs.

"It is a wise precaution to use a method that will destroy any germs that may be present before giving the milk to the babies. The milk will keep in the house better after the heating process."

Pure milk cannot be improved upon as a food for the infant, in Dr. Jacobi's opinion. The trouble is for the dwellers in the crowded parts of the city to get milk that is pure. Under such circumstances as now prevail parts of the city to get milk that is pure. Under such circumstances as now prevail Dr. Jacobi thinks it would be a good idea to have a pasteurized milk supply for the city, which would save many children from gastro-enteritis, nephritis, degeneration of the liver and other diseases.

DETECTIVE CUT IN RAID. Axe Swung by McNaught Hits Farbell -Injury Not Serious,

As a result of the indictments filed by the Grand Jury on Friday in connection with gambling cases, twenty-two bench warrants were issued yesterday by Recorder Goff. The warrants were sent to Police Headquarters to be served by Sergt. Robert McNaught, who is head of Commissioner Bingham's "street cleaning" squad, which has been making raids on poolrooms.

Soon afterward McNaught, Roundsman Becker and Detective Farbell of Police Headquarters, Detective Thomas Lynch of the Second inspection district, Detectives McCutcheon and Rooney and a dozen patrolmen from uptown precincts smashed their way into an alleged poolfoom on the second floor of 6 Park place, in which were seventy-five men interested in the results of horse races. Five were made prisoners

The raid was watched by a large crowd The evidence against the place, which occupies the entire floor over a liquor store, was secured by Abraham Weinberg, a private detective, and Policeman John P. Flood of the Tenth precinct, who say that they made several bets on the races there in the last few days. The policemen, all in plain clothes, gathered about the place in plain clothes, gathered about the place quietly. McNaught placed several at the rear of the building to prevent escape and then began work on the front door with an axe. Farbell wielded a sledge. The first door, covered with an iron netting, was broken from its hinges and the raiders came to another, ten feet further in. There was a commotion upstairs as that door was smashed. No one offered resistance and McNaught threw his axe over his shoulder and started in. Farbell was directly behind him and as the axe swung over the detective sergeant's shoulder rectly behind him and as the axe swung over the detective sergeant's shoulder the blade struck his left wrist. The wound was bound up and the detective stuck to his work until the prisoners were in the Church street police station. Then he was sent to the Hudson street hospital, where

It was said the raid was not made over the head of Capt. McNally of the Church street police station. He had raided the same place last April.

BOLT EXPECTED IN IOWA.

Bitter Feeling Among Republicans Growing

DES MOINES, Ia., July 28 .- In face of the claims of Gov. A. B. Cummins that he has a majority of the delegates and that his forces will organize the Republican State convention which meets here Wednesday, the standpatters made an aggressive showing here to-day.

At a caucus of 300 standpatters it was unanimously decided to resist the Cummins programme. The following resolution was

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that it is the duty of the Republican State central committee to hear the claim of the contestants from all counties in which the delegates are contested and after such hearing make up a provisional roll of delegates and see to it that all delegates whose names are placed thereon are seated in the temporary organization of the convention. Speeches were made by Candidate Perkins, Congressmen Hepburn and Hedge,. Lafe Young and others, in which the proposal of the Cummins people to seize the convention was denounced as revolutionary To-night Gov. Cummins was served with a written notice by W. F. Parrott, Perkins's campaign manager, to appear before the State central committee Monday afternoon and show cause why his delegates in certain counties, alleged to have been elected through fraud, should not be denied seats in the convention.

The Cummins people declare that the notice will be spurned. They hold that the credentials committee named in the convention alone has jurisdiction to investigate questions of this character.

Interest in the convention is intense One-third of the delegates are already here. The bitter feeling seems to be growing and to-night it is the general prediction that one side or the other will bolt.

RANG UP 300 FARES.

Happy German Walters Have a Hilarious Time on a Broadway Car.

On the way home to Harlem from Hobo ken last night two hilarious German waiters got on a Broadway car at Spring street. Catching a glimpse of a saloon at Fourteenth street, they decided they must get off quick and have one more drink. They grabbed the rope attached to the "clock" and began to pull. Before the conductor could stop them fifty fares were rung up. Then he grabbed one waiter and the second got hold of the rope and rang some more fares up. All the way to Thirty-fourth street the waiters alternately fought the conductor and yanked the rope. When an inspector finally got aboard with a policeman he finally got aboard with a policeman he found more than $00 fares rung up.

At the West Thirty-fourth street station, where the prisoners were charged with assault, they said they were Alexander. Bock and August Bockhauser and lived "by East 109th street." They laughed for half an hour after being locked up.

"He must pay it all," shouted Bock to Bockhauser in the next cell. "That fresh conductor he was soaked, wasn't he?"

"Say, August," said Bock, "how would you like some more of that book by Hoboken?"

"Ach!" said Bockhauser, "anyhow, it was a dandy blue eye we gave the inspector,

NAVAL MILITIA'S GREAT WEEK.

THEY TOOK TO THE WEST VIR-GINIA LIKE DUCKS TO WATER.

Fine Lot of Young Fellows, Says an Officer of the Cruiser—Just Enough Seasick-ness to Give the Surgeon Practice—Two Vanished Glories, Plum Duff and Greg.

After sailing the seas for a week the First Battalion of the New York Naval Militia got home yesterday afternoon on the ar-mored cruiser West Virginia, the flagship of Rear Admiral Brownson.

They have been to the eastward and the outhward. That may mean a great deal, and again it may not mean so very much: but at least the amateur bluejackets had a taste of blue water, and they came back, as sunburned as ever a shellback got in a week of Sundays.

Have a good time? Well rather. And here isn't a part of a cruiser that the youngest of the bunch does not know from keel to fighting top. Some got seasick, but that gave the surgeon a chance to practise.

"If we could get such material in the service we would have the best there is in the world," said one of the navy men after the amateurs had disembarked. "Fine young fellows every one of them, and a credit to

The first surprise for the West Virginia's officers came on Saturday, July 21, when the militia boarded the cruiser at Tompkins-

The young fellows skinned up the sides like able bodied seamen, and thirty minutes after they got aboard had their hammocks in place and their bags stored and were ready for business. Those who by reason of their lack of rank had to bunk forward fell into the new life at once. They mated man to man with ordinaries, A Bs and petty officers, and shared their grub and slept in the forecastle. There was but one disappointment, and that was the fact there was no plum duff on the bill of fare. It seems that plum duff has gone out of fashion in the navy. Same with grog, but of course no one missed that.

The first night out officers and men were divided into watches and began their work. There was always a real safforman around to show the militiaman just what to do when the orders were given, and in that way every order was executed twice, even fell into the new life at once. They mated to show the militiaman just what to do when the orders were given, and in that way every order was executed twice, even if once in pantomime, there being some things that two men couldn't do at the same time. Besides washing down decks and suchlike they had some real target practice. Most of it was with three-pounders at a target anchored in Gardiner's Bay, but they had some sub-calibre practice at the 6 inch guns. If they had had more see room they could have fired real shells at a target, but Capt. Arnold of the West Virginia was just the least bit afraid to trust the militiamen with the big guns off the Long Island shore. The navy men themselves go down toward Cuba when they fire at the targets. There isn't so much chance of hitting a stray ship.

In Gardiner's Bay least Thursday the militiamen challenged the real sailors to a cutter race, and two twelve cared cutters were sent away. The race was about a mile and a half straightaway and when it was all over the West Virginia's cutter was coming back. However, the men-of-waremen were the best in the navy and the militiamen were proud that they had rowed with them at all.

Navigator John H. Barnard was in command of the militiam A. Megrath, Russel Raynor, Hobart Guion, Starr Taintor, junior grade and James Macfarlane; Ensigns E. C. De Kay, F. L. Kell ogg, A. Plimpton and I. E. Rafi and Surgeon H. H. Forbes.

In the battalion were five chief petty officers and iso petty officers and seamen. Said Lieut. Barnard:

'It was the best cruise we ever had. We were only sorry that it ended so soon and that we could not take more men with us this time. But we hope to go again in September on the Newark. After that we will have coulded the real sailors.

that we could not take more men with us this time. But we hope to go again in September on the Newark. After that we will have oruless more frequently. Instead of one every two years we will have about three short cruises each year. In that way men who cannot get away for a whole week can get a chance to go to sea for a few days."

Lieut. Barnard declared that the fare of the men was of the best. All returned well and happy. They disembarked at the navy yard and came to their ship, the Granite State, on a navy tug.

The United States training ship Portamouth, after a week's cruise along mouth, after a week's cruise along the Long Island and New Jersey coasts and some target practice, put into Sandy Hook Bay Friday evening with the First Battalion, Naval Reserve of New Jersey. They have had a fine time for a week and have another week ahead of them.

TWO ATTORNEYS TO BE ARRESTED FOR CONSPIRACY.

Negro Known as "William" Swears He Was to Be Paid His Own Price for Swearing Falsely to Beister Up Charge That Hooe Was Intimate With Mrs. Hartje.

PITTSBURG, July 28.—Two attorneys at the Pitteburg bar, it is reported, will be arrested as a result of the Hartje divorce case scandal. For months, it is said, these practitioners have been shielded, but that they can no longer be protected and that it is only question of a few days until arrests wi be made. The charges that will be brought are positively known and conspiracy will be one. It was said to-day by an attorney who refused to be quoted that members of the bar were demanding action. The informations will not be made until Judge Robert S. Frazer has heard all the evidence in the divorce case.

Assistant District Attorney Robb is quoted as saying he would have issued the warrants long ago but that they were fellow attorneys. Now the Bar Association demands the prosecutions. Mr. Robb this morning admitted he had in his possession the deposition of a man whose first name is William in which it is stated that a detective had offered him a sum of money to substantiate Clifford Hooe's story that he was intimate with Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje, who is being sued by her husband for divorce. Mr. Robb admitted that the deposition had been made. It will be offered in evidence at the divorce trial next week. The man "William" refused to tell a lie to substantiate Hooe's deposition. No specinciprice was offered him to perjure himself. "William" was to name his own price.

self. "William" was to name his own price. His deposition is one of the most remarkable documents in the case, and it will prove a big sensation when the contents are made public.

This afternoon Mrs. Hartje was the innocent cause of a sensation in a big Fifth avenue department store. She entered the store unaccompanied and asked to use the private telephone, to which she was shown in a back room. Three women clorks were in this room. They recognized Mrs. Hartje, though they had never ease her below.

and one of them, an emotional female, fell sobbing on Mrs. Hartje's neck.

The other girls also went into hysterics, trying to tell Mrs. Hartje how they sympathized with her.

The news soon spread that Mrs. Hartje was in the back room and there was a stampede of female clerks, who left their customers waiting while they dashed to have a look or a handshake with the woman.

It was an hour before Mrs. Hartje escaped that the shop girls.
